Responsible Ship Breakers

One of the main objectives is to expand the association with recycling yards from all over the world including the Indian subcontinent under the condition that all members meet the same standards for sustainable ship recycling and the certification requirements ISRA has developed for its recycling yard members.

Leading green ship recycling facilities worldwide have joined the association as a full member.

If you are interested in supporting ISRA's goals and environmentally sound and safe ship recycling and if you are a "green" ship recycler we have the possibility of subscribing you as a member. You can start as a candidate member and when your yard is meeting all ISRA standards you can become a full ISRA member.

Membership benefits

As ISRA member it is easier to convince ship owners that your facility is meeting all international requirements for environmentally sound and safe ship recycling. You are allowed to use our logo and brand name. You will be included in all the ISRA branding and promotion activities, including a dedicated member page on our website. You will be part of our international network in which members share ship breaking knowledge. On a regular basis you are being kept up to date on all relevant ship recycling developments and you will be invited to the annual board meeting.

Responsible Ship Owners

These last years a lot of ship owners have started implementing a "green" policy for their fleet. They determine their green ship and operation vision of the future; how to reduce the fuel consumption, the emission of CO₂ and how to increase the energy efficiency of ships, working with condition based maintenance programs etc.

ISRA is active in approaching ship owners and ship owners associations in order to convince them that they should also take responsibility for the end of life vessel phase, by selling the ship to an ISRA member, ensuring green ship recycling. Ship owners with a serious Corporate Social Responsibility, a cradle to grave philosophy for their assets, who really care for the environment and who have respect for human life should also join ISRA as an associate member. With your membership you support ISRA's goals and efforts to create a worldwide level playing field in ship breaking and you have access to ship recycling expertise and network.

Supporting parties

Ship owners, classification societies, brokers, recycling services consultants, asbestos demolition experts, maritime consultants and lawyers have already joined ISRA as an associate member. But also port authorities, banks, insurance companies, surveyors and any other maritime industry related parties supporting ISRA's goals and objectives and who want to help achieving more sustainable ship recycling practices can join ISRA as such.
